Wheeled bins will boost recycling

Lib Dem Council Leader Mark Gayler and Cllr Alan Thawley, Chair of the Environment Committee, with the new wheeled bins

Uttlesford District Council is bringing in a new system of refuse collection to boost recycling rates, protect the environment, and save you money.

Cllr Alan Thawley said "Burying waste in the ground produces methane which in turn contributes to global warming. We need to recycle more, and the new system of wheeled bins will help us to do so."

"We know that some places in our villages are unsuitable for wheeled bins," added Cllr Christina Cant, "We will be talking to local residents and providing alternatives where appropriate. Frail or disabled people who have difficulty with them will receive extra assistance."

Phone Masts

Lib Dem MPs are calling for local councils like Uttlesford to be given more power to make decisions on the siting of mobile phone masts.

Lib Dem MP Andrew Stunnell put forward proposals to the last Parliament, but unfortunately there was not time for the Bill to be passed before the General Election. Liberal Democrat MP's will be backing plans to re-introduce the proposals.

Waste Plan - The Facts

- Kitchen waste will be collected weekly, as now. Dry recyclable material and any remaining waste will be collected separately in alternate weeks.
- Uttlesford Council recognises that not every property is suitable for a wheeled bin. Alternatives will be available where that is the case.
- Frail and disabled people who cannot cope with moving the wheeled bins will be given extra assistance by the refuse collectors.
- The cost of burying waste in the ground is huge, both financially and environmentally.
- The council aims to increase recycling rates from 23% to 50% over the next three years.
- The current system will not achieve the 50% target. It has been shown that the use of wheeled bins makes it easier for people to recycle.
- The cost of fines imposed on Councils not achieving the targets will be much higher than the cost of the new system.

Uttlesford bares its teeth on airport impact

Uttlesford councillors have unanimously agreed tough conditions for BAA Stansted to meet if the airport is to grow beyond 25 million passengers a year.

Said Lib Dem councillor Alan Dean, who drafted the conditions, "The council has made a clear statement to BAA that any new planning application will not be a walkover".

The Lib Dem controlled council wants BAA to reduce greenhouse gas emissions from aircraft, to stop impacting local services such as train services so recently hit by the airport, reduce car use for passengers and workers, including cutting car parking spaces. The council has said BAA must demonstrate that the environmental impacts on those living nearby will be reduced and minimised.

Council Leader Mark Gayler added: "The council is responding to the strong community opposition to more airport growth and has asked BAA to take this opposition seriously."

Lib Dems Oppose Police Merger

Local Lib Dems have criticised Home Office plans to merge Essex Police with neighbouring forces.

These proposals mean that police authorities will be even less under local control, and so even less responsive to local needs.

Cllr Christina Cant commented: "What we need is more and better local policing. We will support moves to provide more visible policing in our towns and villages."

"But if the Essex Police Force is merged with other counties in the region then they will be less likely to listen to local opinion. Our police force should be accountable to local people. We will oppose the merger plans and fight to retain our county Police Authority."

Lib Dems fight for local health services

Local Lib Dems are fighting to keep our Health Services under local control. The Government are proposing to abolish the local Trust.

Councillor Christina Cant said "After years of fighting for better health services we had at last begun to build an effective local partnership. What's right for Harlow isn't necessarily right for Uttlesford. We will have to fight hard for our voice to be heard."

Council Tax

The Lib Dems remain the only party committed to finding a fair alternative to the Council Tax.

Sarah Teather MP, the Lib Dem Local Government spokesperson commented: "The Government's Council Tax Valuation Lists Bill, aimed at cancelling Council Tax revaluation, shows it doesn't have the courage to change the unfair tax."
